

Garden Blog

Wednesday 3rd May 2017

We had a truly interesting visit to Kings Park Nursery last week, and a really informative chat with Chris Evans who is in charge of the plants supplied to Hengistbury Head for sale. It was just a reminder that it does take organised care and hard work to keep gardens in and around Bournemouth looking as fantastic as they do all year round.

The nursery in Kings Park is open to the public for sale of an amazing variety of plants.

Although we have been enjoying the wonderful weather we are all aware that watering the plants is essential at the moment.

We are very excited to have the ancient corn sprouting now and may have another ancient plant to add.

At reception there is a file about the various plants we have in the garden. Please ask the volunteers to share it with you if you are interested in certain plants.