

Wednesday 21st February, 2018

Achillea is starting to grow.

Borage already has blue flowers.

Celandines are flowering, and Crocuses are showing purple and yellow flowers.

Daffodils are beginning to bob.

Euphorbia, both red and green, are brightening the garden.

Ferns are fluttering their leaf shapes.

Group of children visited to day, looking for insects.

Hyacinths are starting to bloom, blue. H is also for Hellebore, which are still flowering.

I am running out of flowering alphabet.

Jasmine is showing its flowers.

Come and have a look at the garden. It seems to be racing away, certainly before my own garden.

Have a good week.
