

Wednesday 25th April, 2018

The extremes of heat and rain have caused the garden to burst into colour. Honesty is standing tall in bright purple alongside the bright yellow Cowslips and blue Forget-me-nots. The Fritillaria is hanging its head proudly before creating a seed worthy of Art Nouveau designs (even though it was the other way around - obviously, nature came first!)

In the rockery, the yellow Sedum and bright pink Thrift compliment the colour of the doggers. The papery-white flowers of the Rock Rose and its silvery foliage are just beautiful.

On a sunny, fresh morning like this one, we came across Solitary Bees, Bumblebees, newts and Sticklebacks. Just a joy to be providing food and habitats for such a variety of wildlife.

As we wandered round the garden (we were weeding as well, you understand!), there is an amazing variety of leaf shape, colour and texture.

The Hengistbury Head Wildlife Gardeners